The new town of Ætna, in the south western part of Barber county, is prospering to the entire satisfaction of its projectors, and a visit there will satisfy anyone that it has a bright future. The Kiewa Killing.

Last week the INDEX mentioned that at New Kiowa, on Thursday, August 27th, a gambler named Black had shot and mortally wounded a soldier. The soldier died Thursday night. His name was Julius Schmitz, a bugler in company K, 18th U.S. infantry. He was 55 years old and had his family with him, including a grown son, also a bugler. He was in Henderson's saloon at one o'clock in the morning, taking a drink when Dave Black, a Dodge City gambler, walked in with a friend, and without provocation knocked the soldier's hat off; the soldier knocked him down, when Black shot him in the abdomen with a 44 caliber revolver.

Black was arrested soon afterward and put in the calaboose under a strong guard. All day Thursday strong threats were made of lynching him by the soldiers and citizens and that night a mob of a hundred or more went to the calaboose to get the prisoner, but Marshal O'Shea grade; $1.30 for medium and 75 cents no outward evidences of this important the prisoner to Hazelton after dark. for common. The coroner's jury after hearing all the evidence in the case, rendered a verdict that Schmitz came to his death at the hands of Black and that the killing was felonious. Orner & Sample of this city have been
